Document for which no computer readable source exists any longer

Partial scan of original hardcopy (available on request) supplied
Introduction

The layout and content of the present document is intended as a working group draft. The final document to be produced by the data analysts group.

The text structures shown within document may be interpreted as:

Different sentences, the same commands of the data analysts environment.

The present document will not deal with the terms of concepts and definitions involved in the presentation of the draft, as indicated in the previous notes for page 2-1.